As the vicar of Christ in the diocese entrusted to his care, the Bishop carries out his threefold ministry as teacher of doctrine, a priest of sacred worship and a minister of governance. He has all the ordinary, proper and immediate power required for the exercise of his pastoral office. As sanctifier, the Bishop is the principal dispenser of the mysteries of God, and he moderates, promotes and guards the liturgical life of his diocese and leads his people to holiness. As the chief teacher, he is called to preserve and transmit the authentic Gospel of Christ. His teaching responsibility is a pastoral one, grounded in his role as a leader who serves the unity and growth of faith of the ecclesial community. As vicar and legate of Christ, the Bishop governs by his counsel, exhortation and example, as well as by the authority and sacred power which he exercises for the spiritual development of his people. He has the sacred right and duty before the Lord of legislating for and of passing judgment on those he governs as well as regulating everything that concerns the good order of divine worship and the apostolate. As administrator, he is charged with the responsible stewardship of the temporal goods of the diocese, which are ordered to the divine worship, charity and the apostolate.

In the Diocese of Beaumont, this Ministry works in the diocese’s three major maritime deep sea ports – Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange. In Beaumont and Port Arthur, Catholic maritime ministry is carried on in an ecumenical spirit through the International Seafarers Center of Beaumont and the Port Arthur International Seafarers Center. Most Rev. David L. Toups, S.Th.D.
Ordained and Installed Sixth Bishop
August 21, 2020
Ordained Priest - June 14, 1997
For his episcopal motto, Bishop Toups has chosen these words taken from the eighth chapter of St. Paul’s Letter to Romans. This Letter, probably the most important of the epistles of Paul, is a kind of theological heritage and clearly declares that salvation is offered to all humanity through the Gospel. Inspired by the Apostle’s example, Bishop Toups desires to dedicate himself to spreading the Gospel to all people. It is also the first scripture he was taught as a child and was a type of family motto that his mother used as a way to keep the family grounded in trusting God’s providence for their lives. Moreover, the choice of this motto is the same verse as his predecessor, as a sign of continuity with Bishop Curtis Guillory, S.V.D., Bishop Emeritus of Beaumont.

“For those who love God, all things work together for the good” (Romans 8:28)
In the right side of the shield (in the heraldic shield, right and left are exchanged from the observer’s point of view; right and left come from the perspective of the soldier who, in ancient times, held his own shield) we find represented the Coat of Arms of the Diocese of Beaumont: the mount at the base of the shield recalls the name of the city, Beaumont; on the top of the hill there is a golden vase, charged with the Greek letters X (Chi) and P (Rho), the Monogram of Christ, since they are the first two letters of the name of Christ in that language (Χριστός -Khristòs). It is the vase which contains the sacred oils used for the administration of the sacraments. Moreover, the vase also recalls the vast reserves of oil which constitute one the most important industries of the area.

Above this, we find a silver star between two roses of the same color; the star is taken from the flag of Texas, “The Lone Star State,” while the roses come from the Coat of Arms of the Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston, from which the Diocese of Beaumont was erected in 1966. For his personal arms, seen in the left side of the shield (right side from the observer point of view), Bishop Toups has chosen these symbols:

- A plume fashioned into a quill, a symbol which appears in a 16th-century coat of arms of the Toups (Dubs) family, serves as a reminder of his family lineage. In addition, Bishop Toups spent much of his priesthood in the service of Catholic education as a pastor, professor, administrator, and rector of the major seminary in Florida. The plume/quill represents the importance of the intellectual pursuit of the truth and his desire to be a Shepherd faithful and true. Also, his inspiration comes from the witness St. Teresa of Calcutta who often said that she was simply “I am only a pencil in the hand of God, but it is He who writes.”

- A red rampant lion, which comes from the Diocesan crest of St. Petersburg, for which the bishop was ordained a priest in 1997, represents the Spanish roots of the church in Florida. In addition, this symbol underlines the middle name of the Bishop, Leon, after his father, thus making the Coat of Arms “canting” (“canting arms” are heraldic bearings that represent the bearer’s name). The lion is also a symbol of courage, which the Bishop asks of God to pour upon him as he embraces the Office of Bishop.
• A pelican feeding its chicks. This image of the Pie pellicáne is taken from the 13th-century hymn “Adoro te devote” attributed to St. Thomas Aquinas, (“Pie pellicáne, Jesu Dómine, me immúndum munda tuo ságuine, cujus una stilla salvum fácere, totum mundum quit ab ómni scélere — Lord Jesus, Good Pelican, wash my filthiness and clean me with Your Blood, one drop of which can free the entire world of all its sins”) is a powerful and ancient symbol of Jesus, our Eucharistic Lord, Who, to prevent us from starving, feeds us with his very Flesh and Blood. Thus, this image serves as the base/foundation of the entire shield to remind all that the Eucharist is the “source and summit” of our lives as Catholic Christians. It is also the primary symbol on the flag of the State of Louisiana, where the bishop spent the majority of his youth. The three chicks represent the bishop and his brother and sister who were spiritually and temporally fed by their loving parents. It stands as an image of a life of self-sacrifice, which he desires to live for the people of God;

• A five pointed star at the center symbolizes Mary as the Star of the New Evangelization (per St. John Paul II) as the Bishop seeks her intercession for his episcopal ministry. The star is cited by St. Bernard of Clairvaux in a famous hymn, where he refers to Mary as the “Star of the Sea,” which guided mariners to safety: “Si insurgant venti tentationum, si incurras scopulos tribulationum, respice stellam, voca Maria — When the storms of temptation burst upon thee, when thou seest thyself driven upon the rocks of tribulation, look at the star, call on Mary.” Bishop Toups continues to entrust his new pastoral service to the protection and the guiding light of the Blessed Virgin Mary. In addition, the star is a prominent symbol of his new home in Texas, “the Lone Star State.”

As the process of putting together this coat of arms was nearing completion and Bishop Toups was reflecting on its Trinitarian significance, it became apparent that our Triune God is beautifully represented in each of the three sections of his coat of arms: God the Father is represented by the lion as the King of all creation; God the Son, Jesus Christ, is represented by the sacrificial pelican feeding its chicks with its own flesh and blood; and God the Holy Spirit is represented by the plume/feather as the Spirit is often mentioned appearing in the form of a Dove; and, at the very center, the Heart of the Trinity, dwells the Blessed Mother of Jesus, Mary Immaculate, in the symbol of the star, as she intercedes for all of her children to come to know the Love of God.
The red (Gules) is the color of love and of blood, thus it is the symbol of the infinite love of the Father Who sent the Son to shed His blood for us, the ultimate act of love as represented in the Pie pellicáne image.

The gold (Or) is the first among noble metals, thus the symbol of the first Virtue, Faith, which help us to believe in God’s plan of Salvation.

The blue (Azure) color symbolizes the separation from worldly values and the ascent of the soul toward God, therefore the fullness of the Celestial Virtues which raise themselves from the things of the earth toward the heavens.

The silver (Argent) is the second of the noble metals and displays as white, which symbolizes the purity and innocence of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which all Christians share through the gift of sanctification.

According to the Roman Catholic heraldic tradition, the Coat of Arms of a Bishop is normally composed of:

- a shield with its charges (symbols) coming from family, geographic, religious and historical meanings and/or referring to the name of the Bishop;

- a golden processional cross, with one horizontal bar, to represent the rank of the Bishop, “impaled” (vertically) behind the shield;

- a green hat (galero) with twelve (six on each side) attached tassels, arranged from the top in rows of one, two, and three;

- a scroll with the motto, written in black, below everything.

Here a samnitic shaped shield has been chosen, frequently used in Roman Catholic Church heraldry and a botonny processional cross with five red gemstones to represent the Five Wounds of Christ.

Catholic Archives of Texas

The archives was established in 1923 by the Texas Knights of Columbus Historical Commission. Its goal of producing a history of Catholicism in Texas culminated in the publishing of the seven-volume work Our Catholic Heritage in Texas 1519-1936, written almost entirely by Carlos Castañeda of the University of Texas at Austin.

The archives for the Catholic Church in Texas were originally located at St. Edward’s University in Austin. After a 10-year stay in Amarillo, the collection was returned to Austin by Bishop Louis Reicher in 1959. Since then it has been housed in the chancery office of the Diocese of Austin. In 1985 it was taken under the auspices of the Texas Catholic Conference and its board of directors. The repository is the only archives in the United States servicing one religion for an entire state.

As the Catholic history center in Texas, the archives’ mission is to collect, preserve and make available for research those records of individuals and organizations engaged in work reflecting the goals of the Catholic Church in Texas. Especially important is the ongoing relationship and records management system with the Texas Catholic Conference, Texas Knights of Columbus, Texas Catholic Historical Society and its journal, The Journal of Texas Catholic History and Culture. The archives cooperates with the Texas dioceses and with cultural and historical institutions in the area to achieve common goals of historical preservation and interpretation.
Holdings of the Catholic Archives of Texas include records of the Texas Catholic Conference, Texas Knights of Columbus and its historical commission, Texas Catholic Historical Society, religious associations, societies and clubs in the state, private papers of several individuals, personal papers and biographical files of bishops and clergy in Texas, diocesan and parish collections, newspaper and documents concerning religious orders formed or stationed in the state. It also includes more than 9,000 photographs, microfilmed sacramental records, Texana and Catholic books and artifacts related to the history of the Catholic Church in Texas from 1688 – the beginning of the Spanish mission era – to the present day.

Texas Catholic Conference

The Texas Catholic Conference was established by the bishops of Texas in 1963 while gathered in Rome during the Second Vatican Council. Formalized in 1964, the TCC’s purpose is to achieve greater unity of mission among the Catholic communities of Texas. The Conference is a federation of all Roman Catholic dioceses in the Provinces of Galveston-Houston and San Antonio.

The conference’s functions are:
- To facilitate cooperation and shared responsibility among Texas Catholics in furthering the mission of the church;
- To foster communications between the church and other institutions and organizations in Texas and to cooperate with them in regional or statewide programs;
- To provide a method through which representatives of the Catholic community in Texas may actively and responsibly participate in the life of the church;
- To promote unity, justice, peace, mutual understanding and cooperation among the people of God.

The conference holds a General Assembly every other year. Its board of directors, which includes the bishops of Texas, meets twice yearly.

The Texas Catholic Historical Society was organized during the years that the volumes of Our Catholic Heritage in Texas were released. With the bishops of Texas serving as the board of directors, the society’s goal was to preserve historical materials pertaining to the church in Texas.

The organization was revitalized by the Texas Catholic Conference, and membership was offered to any interested individual. The society’s objectives are to discover, collect, preserve and publish historical material, especially those that pertain to the Catholic community in Texas. The society meets annually and has a newsletter that appears quarterly. Individuals wishing to become members are encouraged to write for more information.
